DBNC's Executive Director

Priyanka's reflections are on the power of community, of communication, and of collaboration.

Building new relationships and challenging the status quo, so that DBNC moves ahead creating spaces for a community that is always evolving.

Who We Are

Mission

To enhance quality of life with impactful services and engaging programs that build stronger and progressive communities.

Vision

To build a stronger, progressive community.

DEI Statement

We uphold and advance principles of diversity, equity, and inclusion across the organization. Every individual who engages with DBNC should feel that their diverse perspectives, experiences, and cultures are valued. We create safe spaces and opportunities for all to voice their thoughts respectfully, to learn, and develop a deeper understanding of one another.

What Do We Do?

DBNC's mission is to build stronger, progressive communities.

Since 1988, we have been providing free and accessible programming for newcomers, families, youth, older adults, children, and job seekers. All our services are responsive to community needs and informed by our service users directly.

With almost 200 staff members and volunteers, we have 18 locations and offer services in 22 languages.

Highlighting DBNC Staff

Gary Gu

Operations Manager, Administration and Information Technology

DBNC has always been there for me
in my journey

It was a hard decision to leave the U.S. but what motivated me was when I heard good things about Canada. Plus, I spoke French. So, in 2008, I drove to Canada, our future home, with my family.

My friend in Mississauga told me about DBNC. My first interaction was with a Settlement Worker who gave me information on how to settle in Canada. I also happened to speak with a staff member from the Employment department. Soon my 1 year old son started going to the EarlyON at DBNC.

In 2011, when I decided to apply for citizenship, DBNC supported me again with my paperwork. Back then, there were workshops organized by DBNC on how to apply for citizenship, which I attended. DBNC has always been there for me in my journey. I always make it a point to recommend the agency to my newcomer friends and family. For the past decade, I have been working in the not-for-profit sector in various roles. One day, I saw DBNC was looking for an Operations Manager. I applied for it and the rest is history!

Wendy Mullinder

Seniors Program Coordinator

I am amazed at our growth and diversity, as well as about the work we do in the community!

I have been with DBNC for a really long time. I often reminisce about my beginnings, when there were only 5 staff. I am amazed at our growth and diversity, as well as about the work we do for the community. I am proud to be a part of that.

I am a grandmother to 4 grandchildren. I find the role to be gratifying, complicated, and sometimes worrying. Most of my clients are grandparents as well and it is another way to connect with them! I had 2 little boys at home when I returned to Canada after 13 years in New Zealand. There was an ad for a part-time position with DBNC and I applied. The role was to hold workshops for women in the community and with my experience in NZ, I knew I could do the job. That job eventually ended and I began working with seniors. I didn't plan it - it was something lucky I fell into and the part time hours really suited me as I had young children at home.

Currently, I am coordinating the Seniors program as part of the Community Health team, which I love because I receive so much support from my colleagues and also because I am able to collaborate with funders and community organizations to support older adults.

Henok Abay

Settlement Counsellor

“ I realized how challenging it is for a newcomer to settle into a new country. ”

I am originally from Eritrea. In 2016, I moved to Canada as a refugee and received my PR. I will be a Canadian citizen soon. I studied Journalism, as I wanted to pursue it as a career. However, I started teaching instead, which I did for 2 years.

Before moving to Canada, I lived in Sweden for almost 5 years. That's when I realized how challenging it is for a newcomer to settle into a new country. I struggled to work towards being part of the Swedish population. I had to learn the language, find different ways to land a job, etc. Finally, I got a chance to volunteer at a settlement agency (similar to DBNC). I loved helping newcomers navigate their settlement into the country. To see the difference that my work did to help them, inspired me to work harder in my role.

When I moved to Canada, I pursued my Social Work education. When I saw a Settlement Counsellor job posting at DBNC, I immediately applied for it. Fortunately I got the job and now here I am!

Folashade Okomayin

Housing Support Worker

As a newcomer,
there were many challenges I faced.

My name is Folashade, or Fola, and I am from Nigeria. I am married with 4 children. My background is in Journalism, but I also use this education as a tool to do my advocacy work for women and girls.

After I moved to Canada, I studied Social Service Work at Sheridan College. My first job was at the Salvation Army as a Residential Program Facilitator, and then I became a Case Worker. Eventually, I began working in housing, which soon brought me to DBNC.

What pushed me to work in housing were the situations that I saw in the shelters. As a newcomer, there were many challenges that I myself faced. Everyone deserves shelter. Everyone. What encouraged me to keep going with my work was the joy that I saw on people's faces when they got housing.

As I am the only Housing Worker at DBNC, it is a major responsibility. I have worked hard to get DBNC on the Peel Alliance to end Homelessness and Canada Alliance to end Homelessness. I will continue to work hard to get DBNC's name out there!

Jaanaki Jeyaraam

Tamil Settlement Counsellor

Small things are what make the difference!

I came to Canada in 1996 with my two sons, and found out I was pregnant with a baby girl as soon as I landed. I lived with my uncle for almost 2 years, until I moved out into an apartment.

I was on Ontario Works Social Assistance and the staff there suggested I start volunteering. The mothers in the community told me about DBNC, where I eventually met Param (Settlement Counsellor) who suggested I volunteer at the agency. I got a part-time role in 2002 and in 2004, I became a full-time employee. DBNC offered me my first job in Canada. My passion for helping newcomers keeps me going. I strongly believe in embracing my culture and speaking to clients, from the same cultural background, in my language.

Though it has been more than 27 years since I came to Canada, for the first 4 years I supported my children by myself. It took so much determination to establish myself as an independent person. That's why I like to share my story. Clients always tell me how motivated they felt after speaking with me. Small things are what make the difference!

Jonathon Mitchell

Youth Service Manager

As I am getting older, I am realizing helping people is my passion

I'm the oldest of 3 siblings. My mom was a young mother and had 3 children by the age of 24. Though I did not have a father per se, I had a lot of support from my grandparents, who were intertwined in my life journey on a high level.

Growing up, my mom always told me I had the traits and beliefs of someone who belonged to social services. As I am getting older, I am realizing that helping people is my passion. I got my first job as a team leader in the City of Mississauga at the Malton Community Center. My manager encouraged me to go to school and I took her advice. I studied recreation and leisure services and that was when my connection to DBNC started.

I did two placements at DBNC. I enjoyed my role here and was learning so much that I left my job and started working full-time here. The opportunity to work alongside Lindel (Settlement Program Manager) was not something that I wanted to miss out on. He was, and still is, a mentor to me.

Alaa Sharaf

Community Health Case Manager

It gives me immense happiness to be part of DBNC and walk with clients in their settlement journey

I'm a mother of 3 children. I started working at DBNC 2 years ago in 2021, during the height of COVID-19. It was an opportunity for me to help the community. My work was something that I was passionate about and liked doing.

My family planned to move to Canada for a long time. After I finished my education here, my father decided to migrate back to Saudi Arabia. At a later point, I came back to Canada with my husband and children.

I always wanted to be a teacher or work in client-facing roles. I was a teacher for almost 6 years and now I have a chance to work with clients. It hurts to see how much clients struggle due to language barriers. I understand how this feels, because when I moved here, my family did not get much support. But now I feel newcomers are lucky to have services, like the ones offered at DBNC, in languages that they are comfortable speaking. It gives me immense happiness to be part of DBNC and walk with clients in their settlement journey.

Richard Laurente

Youth Outreach Worker

In this field, you really have to be a good listener and be empathetic

I was born and raised in Toronto. I am very big on family and friends and I love hanging out with my loved ones. I am also a new father and enjoy spending every moment with my wife and son.

I love being a part of an organization that has helped so many people, especially youth. In my role, I am good at being there for people, being the voice of reason, and being a good listener. In this field you really have to be a good listener and be empathetic.

I started as a contract Youth Job Specialist at DBNC in 2016. In 2018, I joined the Youth department, where I am currently working as the Youth Outreach Worker. I provide one-on-one service and also connect with youth in schools. I am currently running an employment program, “Youth On The Rise”, which will give youth more opportunities to find who they are as people and to also find meaningful employment. I am excited to help youth unlock their potential.

Yuliia Holinata

Settlement Worker in Hotels

I advocate for my clients. I know what it is like to be a newcomer

Our family moved to Canada last year, because we saw it as a land of opportunities. It wasn't easy with 2 kids. We had to figure out a lot of things. We had friends who offered us a place to stay and luckily my husband found a job quickly.

We found a huge Ukrainian community to support us. I heard of LINC classes, where they provide you with day care, so I reached out to a DBNC Ukrainian Counsellor and registered. I also actively applied for Ukrainian and Spanish jobs and eventually found a contract job as an Ukrainian Settlement Worker in Hotels at DBNC! I then took on the role of Spanish Counsellor, which is another great community I serve.

I help clients fill out forms and I refer them to different supports. I advocate for my clients and speak on their behalf. I know how it feels to be a newcomer, so I can relate to them. I work to support and guide them as best as I can.

Sonia Ordieriez

Program Assistant
Commissioner for Taking Affidavits

I am a mom from Columbia and I have been with DBNC for 17 years. I started as a volunteer before getting employed. DBNC was a small place back then. As a new refugee, I did not know much about Canada, except that it is very cold here!

Today I have all the support I need from DBNC. Currently I work in admin for the LINC department. I have enjoyed learning from my team and I have had amazing colleagues during my time at the agency.

Nitin Dhora

EOES - Mentoring Coordinator

I moved to Canada in 2004, where I rented an apartment right on Dixie and Bloor. That's when I learned about DBNC and decided to attend their Job Search Workshop. I saw a job posting for a Mentoring Program Facilitator and a Mentoring Program Coordinator at DBNC. My Counsellor, Linda, encouraged me to apply for it suggesting it was a perfect fit for me. I am so glad I did because I got the job!

Helping newcomers is very rewarding. I was amazed by how volunteer mentors invested their time and effort to help me in my early days. They inspired me to give back to the community.

Najwa Basyouni

LINC Instructor

I moved to Canada in 1996 with my newborn. Currently, I am a Level 5 LINC instructor at DBNC where I enjoy connecting with newcomers. I can describe my experience with DBNC as upward, learning, and evolving.

It hasn't been a simple journey. I started with DBNC as a volunteer teacher in 2009. I worked with visually impaired students from Pakistan, where I spent 5 hours a day sitting beside the teacher, treating it as a full time job. I believe in teaching in a fun way. Sometimes we watch short clips, listen to music, dance, and exercise. You should have the passion in everything that you do!

Amela Besic

Program Assistant /
Commissioner of Oath

I came to Canada in 2000 as a government-assisted refugee with my son. DBNC advised me to continue my education, so I went back to school and received my Honours Diploma.

In 2003, I began volunteering at DBNC's Settlement program and realized my passion for helping newcomers, the same way I was helped. I enjoy what I'm doing and though I'm not frontline, working behind the scenes gives me satisfaction that I'm helping the community.

Highlighting DBNC clients

Mrunmayi has a 3-year-old daughter and works as an IT engineer. When Murnmayi moved to Canada two years ago, she heard about DBNC's EarlyON program from friends. Upon trying out the service, Mrunmayi was amazed by the facilitators and how great they were with her and her daughter. Not only was she happy, but so was her daughter who became very comfortable with the staff. Mrunmayi can't stop saying nice things about DBNC and continues to tell other parents about EarlyON.

Donors

A SPECIAL THANK YOU to our Community Care Closet donors

Thank you to those who donated, and continue to donate, to DBNC. The gift you give has a direct impact on the families we serve. Funds raised help provide additional resources like clothing, transportation, educational supplies, hygiene products, small household necessities, and so much more.

Volunteers

Finally, to our esteemed and dedicated volunteers, DBNC is humbled and honoured by your drive to help families in our community. Volunteers are the backbone of DBNC's work and are the reason why we are able to impact so many lives.

Thank you!
